This is an outstanding off-road trainer that is both light and supportive. Neutral and almost-straight lasted, it has excellent forefoot and rearfoot cushioning that feels stable because of its strong heel counter and snug arch support. Despite such lightness and responsiveness, it's nevertheless clearly built to be robust in off-road conditions, with plenty of reinforced protective material around the toe box, plus a strong, well-cushioned and grippy sole.

The tread pattern on the sole is well designed for stony and muddy off-road trails. However, the material it's made from can become extremely slippery in wet conditions, and while this presents little problem on muddy, sandy or gravel trails, you may suddenly lose your footing on bare wet rocks, roots and maybe even wet roads. In every other respect, though, this shoe is highly recommended and represents great value for money.
